Then WRITE to him/her and let them know how much your FAMILY enjoys vintage radio. Be sure to tell them a little about yourselves including the number of children that like to listen to vintage radio. A lot of people in Broadcasting, and especially Ad Agencies, think only people in nursing homes listen!

If a station(s) already carries vintage radio be sure to tell them thanks and ask for more! There are basically three major sources of vintage radio programming for broadcast. they are Carl Amari, "When Radio Was"; Charles Michelson (sp?), various half-hour shows; and Radio Recorders, "Golden Age of Radio Theater", which I represent. "When Radio Was" is an hour show, Michelson's half-hour shows, and the "Golden Age of Radio Theater" which is available for two hours weeknights and two hours on Saturday night.

So it's easy to see there's easily three to four hours of programming available every night. And ask that the shows be repeated during the day on the weekends - great to listen to while gardening, etc.

There's room for everybody and we welcome it. The more that's broadcast, the more legitimacy to the "product". The shows and formats are enough different that they should fit nicely together!

One more thing that can help, be sure to call the sponsor's of these broadcasts. Ask for the owner or at least the manager to be sure the word gets to the key decision makers. Tell them how much your FAMILY enjoys the vintage radio programming. Also mention it each time your in their stores!

Your efforts can make a difference!
